Complete Plans For Knights of Columbus Ball

Elaborate preparations are nearing completion for the eleventh annual charity ball of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, to be held in the state armory on Friday evening, January 24.

It is the desire of the Knights to offer for the approval of its many patrons entertainment of the highest grade and of such a variety that it will appeal to even the most critical. J. D. Schenck, chairman of the entertainment and music committee, has promised a real treat for those who attend and an announcement will be made in a few days of the various artists who will perform. There will also be two orchestras and lovers of dancing will be assured of continuous music to be rendered by a leading Metropolitan band as well as one local orchestra.

The color scheme of the decorations will be entirely different from anything ever displayed before and William J. Dwyer, chairman of the decorating committee, has stated that the armory will be transformed into a veritable palace, gorgeous in its splendor of color and lights.

There will be ample seating arrangements provided for the large audience attending and every convenience will be provided for their comfort.

The Knights are very grateful to the many patrons of this worthy annual affair, the proceeds of which go to help those in need regardless of race, creed or color. A complete report of the work done by the Knights during the past year will be announced shortly.

GUILLOTINE NOW IS IDLE IN PARIS

Murderers Shown Great Leniency in France.

Paris.—The guillotine is becoming a relic of the past as murderers are granted more leniency in France today than ever before in history.

Within four days, three self-confessed paricides and one sweetheart killer were acquitted. The executioner has not been called upon to work in Paris for nearly three years while in the provinces the guillotine has not fallen in months and only a few times in the last several years.

Sentences of death imposed on five women during the year for the most horrible murders, including the poisoning of babies and husbands, were commuted to life imprisonment by the president of the republic. Ten assassins have just been excused from going to Devil's Island because of delicate health.

Mme. Jane Weiller, who shot and killed her husband after an all night party in the cabarets of Montmartre and Moulgourasse, was recently sentenced to five years' imprisonment; but some legal experts declared she would have been acquitted had she followed a different sort of defense. She claimed that she shot to save herself and child. They said it would have been better had she merely argued, "I loved him; that's why I killed him."

French juries are often sentimental. Although they see little sentiment in trying to save one's own life, they are apt to be moved to tears generously if a murderer swears he killed in the name of love because of passion.

The Assize court of the Var acquitted young Ilthard Corbett when he declared he loved his mother so that he could not bear to see her suffering from cancer. He shot a bullet in her temple. The jury understood and freed him of all blame.

Romance of War Flares

Afresh After Long Wait

London.—A romance which flamed during the war and which died out because of uncontrollable circumstances flared up afresh as the result of a dramatic and unexpected reunion between a London girl and a New Zealand soldier who traveled half way around the world to take part in the recent armistice day ceremonies here.

The former soldier, Victor Beetham, who lost a leg in the war, and Mrs. Miriam Smith, who served in the conflict as a nurse, decided at last to get married and to return to far off New Zealand to live.

The pair became engaged to be married when they first met each other a decade ago. But the fact that the nurse had a widowed mother whom she refused to leave, forced Beetham to return home alone. They corresponded for a few months and then Beetham received a letter from Miss McNaughton saying she was going to be married. Beetham said: "This year I decided to come to London to lay a wreath at the Cenotaph. Mrs. Smith, whose husband meanwhile had died, also came there to lay a wreath in memory of her father. By strange chance we came there at the same time. Our meeting was a great surprise to both of us. We regarded it as fate and decided to get married."

French Open Campaign to Bar Widow's Weeds

Paris.—Because Paris was recently dubbed the city of gloom, from the fondness of its women for wearing black, a first step is being made to abolish the widow's veil.

Widows themselves are back of the movement. They claim the widow's weeds in France are far too long and lugubrious and are not at all in keeping with the French reputation for chicness. Now Duchess d'Uzes, president of the Society for Women's Suffrage, who is herself a widow, has declared her earnest support for the campaign.

The duchess was widowed 50 years ago, but she has always worn widow's crepe, although she now freely admits the style is entirely out of keeping with modern life. She bases her argument more on utility than appearance, claiming that in the crowded streets, in the autobuses and subways the long veil is a nuisance.

Seagoing Steer Too

Much for Cowboys

New York.—When a steer escaped from the stock yards recently and plunged off the dock into North river, New York's cowboys washed their hands of the affair. They vainly tried to lasso the steer from the dock.

Some one suggested the police. An emergency squad, with a truck crane, a small boat and several yards of rope, had the steer tied up and hauled back on the dock in no time at all.

"The steer took unfair advantage of us," the cowboys explained. "Who ever heard of a seagoing cowboy?"

"Health First" Says H.S. Head

More Vital than Verbs is the Lesson of How to Keep Well

EVEN so wise a person as the head of a high school department may have something to learn about how to keep well, just like the rest of us. So at any rate says Miss Mary S. Cline, the director of the Department of English, Easton (Pa.) High School.

"I used to love a hike over the hill on a frosty afternoon," writes Miss Cline. "And then I began to be too tired to start out—too listless to move. I began to fear the cold, I began to hate my work."

"I had a horror of medicines. So when the doctor told me to try Nujol, I protested. 'But this is different,' he said. 'Nujol just passes through the body, lubricating it and absorbing the poisons. And,' he added, 'it won't make you fat. Try it.'"

"I did try it. My energy began to come back. I began to take my after-school jaunts again. Work seemed pleasant and my whole outlook changed. I was my old self again, with enough energy to climb the mountain, and the joy of health once more restored."

What is the secret of Nujol's success? Just this: the human body, like any delicate mechanism, requires perfect lubrication to function properly and get rid of the waste poisons that make us feel dull, languid, tired, headachy, tasteless and colorless as pure water, Nujol aids nature in carrying away these poisons. It is not a medicine. It contains no drugs. It works naturally.

Try Nujol for two weeks. You will be amazed at the results. Now what it is to feel well, refreshed in the morning and full of pep for the day's work or play. Get Nujol at the drug store. It costs but a few cents a day but it makes you feel like a million dollars.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Only about twenty years ago or so a man was so used to the notions necessary in feeding the good family horse, or of lifting the coal bucket to refuel the kitchen stove that he could almost have done either in the dark. Now the family horse, at least in cities, is practically unknown, and gas or electricity becomes the kitchen fuel.

It was only yesterday when a man's wife, also in the dark, had to have found the living-room light, or have chosen a dinner knife in her silver. And now here has come the clock that winds itself—or not quite that, is wound by the beneficent power that lights all the city's millions of lamps. The clock is so beautiful, too; whether they are like little cathedral towers in the typical over-mantel type, or their lines, like the tall "old clock on the stairs," beloved by Henry James's Longfellow.

Have you found a self-cutting "f" demands an incredulous one. It is quite so marvelous, though at the future may have in store for us, no man can say. In all of this world of change, the silver table has held its own conservative role; changing only in decoration of plate or a trifle in the form of the side. Not so long ago there was a man, perhaps cutting her steak or slice of the roast at that very moment, who gained the concept that a life with more handle and less blade would be easier to manage and more effective in action. How long it will before the world adapts these new knives is another story, but it is an interesting indication that there is not a single article of common household use, or of men's and women's wear that is not liable to sudden revolutionary change.

With that in mind, it is after all not surprising that changes in dress fashion have come. Dame Fashion reads with interest in the midst of a whole new business report the statement, the new modes have been highly beneficial. Never before has a fashion done so much to put new life into every department in a store.

And to prove once more, if it needs saying, how seriously style and fashion are taken in these days, here is Paul Nystrom of Columbia university school of business, said to be an outstanding authority on fashion economics, declaring, "The new silhouette is a perfectly normal development and in accord with the wave idea of the rise and spread of fashions. The trend now gathering headway was discernible a year ago, and clearly indicated six months ago."

Working out his "wave" theory, Mr. Nystrom thinks it will be four or five years before the new styles reach the "crest of popularity." Well, we shall see what we shall see, and in the meantime it is good economy if it economizes to get hard wear immediately out of gowns that cannot and themselves to some mode of uptheking.

Double-Breasted Coat Rompers for Children

Out double-breasted down the front, a romper slips on like a coat. A high collar and double row of pearl buttons give style. Besides the front there are two openings, a drop seat and a crotch opening. The crotch opening is V-shaped like a big boy's pants, but faced and finished with two buttons. It is practical for changing underwear when necessary, saving taking off the romper. The romper is made of the four stitchings, the two buttonholes and the buttons that with this closing is saved many times over in daily changings. For the child's liking there is a nursery ducky sitting across the pocket. It is bordered on the front and the back is stitched below afterward, may be worked with coarse embroidery cotton or fine wool yarn. The embroidery is attractive, on a light colored chambray or soft jersey romper. The Woman's Home Companion.

Velvet in Favor for Formal Wrap

Short Coat, Shaped at Bottom, an Expression of Youth, Smartness.

Wraps to wear with evening dress of the latest type—that especially designed for Sunday nights—have been a problem for the couturiers, notes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times. They must have a certain touch of elegance and yet fit in perfectly with the casual character of the costume as a whole, and, more than anything, they must allow great leeway for individual taste, since the dresses they have to go with are to be worn either for restaurant dinner or for the informal dinner at home or elsewhere, when men are having their day of relaxation and indulgence.

The wrap, of course, depends upon the place, the girl and the gown. The one most in vogue is a velvet coat wrap with sleeves, a big collar and perhaps cuffs of fur such as would be suitable to wear with one of the soft gowns of velvet, lace, net or tulle that are so fashionable. The wraps of plain velvet that are being shown by French and American designers are less pretentious than those of metal or velvet brocade, and serve equally well for formal afternoon or evening.

A model that is the expression of youth and smartness is a short coat, shaped at the bottom, longer at the back and bordered about all the edges with fur—fox, mink, marten or ermine, natural or white. A wrap of this description fits easily over a dress of several ounces, small ruffles or bouffant drapery. Three-quarters and full-length coats and wraps are worn most comfortably with gowns of long, slim lines, and are distinguished by a low flapping shape at the back paralleling that of the gown.

One designer emphasizes the ensemble for this type of dress. For the wrap she depicts seldom from plain velvet, or panne, which she uses in some long formal coats cut on princess lines with a fitted circular flounce, which is to ripple softly over a gown of almost any model. The lining of the coat must match or blend with the dress, and the costume must represent a color harmony. Black, and black and white together, are in the limelight this season. And whatever the color of the wrap lining, that too must be reflected in the fur, of which a luxurious collar and often other trimming is made.

The ensemble possibilities are countless. Among them is one of a princess gown in warm brown velvet, with overlapping slender panels stitched in lines that curve from one hip downward across the front to cluster at the other side and hang in long points at the bottom. Between these curving panels are pointed pieces of lace dyed in the same shade of brown, which forms also the yoke and lower sleeves of the bodice. The coat wrap of brown velvet is lined with a lighter shade, completing a costume of quiet elegance which will serve for many informal occasions.

Trains Come With New Fashion of Long Skirts

Not only will feminine America conceal its erstwhile emancipated limbs under ankle-length skirts these winter evenings but, if it accepts the judgment of Paris, it will trail a foot or so of train behind.

Evening and house gowns reminiscent of Greece and the French empire are being imported, by the leading New York shops, reports Harper's Bazaar. Some are raised in front and lowered in back, some barely touch the floor with the suggestion of trailing, some sweep along for two or three feet in the wake of the wearer. There is hope, however, for the woman who has found the short skirt too satisfying to be surrendered without protest. Madame Louise Bonlangier is quoted by the magazine as believing that "short daytime skirts will be classic for years to come," and Baron DeMeyer, European fashion authority of Harper's Bazaar, observes that "the elegant and well-dressed women of 1930 will do much as they please. Their vintages will follow their bulks and their skirts will be as long, or as short, as proportions and good taste demand."

COLLEGE-BRED POLICE

The Civil Service Commission in a large city reports that one out of 25 candidates for appointment to the local police department is a college man. A heading on the application blanks reads "Education beyond high school." Under that heading, on a per cent of the recently filed applications, are found the names of 12 different institutions of college rank. Furthermore, 50 per cent of the applicants have a complete high school education or better.

Says a member of the commission: "We're rapidly abandoning the idea that all that's required to be a policeman is muscle and the ability to use it. We're coming to the place where keen, educated men are needed for police work, and I believe men of this caliber who enter the business have an unusually bright future as our officers of tomorrow."

Other points rise in the reader's mind. Is there something particularly attractive in a policeman's career that college men should be turning to it in increasing numbers? Is this civic spirit? Are some of them joining the police force because of difficulty in landing other jobs formerly held to be more in the college man's line? Whatever the situation and reasons for it, most cities would be benefited by having a good education added to the average policeman's physical and mental equipment.

CABLE REPAIR.

That earthquake that went on a rampage on November 18, and did so many disturbing things to the floor of the Atlantic ocean, snapped three cables important to international communication. The first of these has now been completely repaired, in spite of unusually difficult weather conditions.

This cable had been broken 956 miles from New York and 327 miles from Bay Roberts, N. F., with a gap of 100 miles between the breaks. It was necessary for the cable ship to pick up the separated ends and attach to them a lot of new cable. All the while the work was going on, violent storms interfered. It was as if the elements had snapped the cable on purpose and were determined to prevent its repair. One of the ends was picked up from a depth of 15,200 feet. The cable ship had never before reached lower than 6,000 feet.

Neptune may rage and storm, but human communication goes on. The cables, scientists say, will be useful and needed for many years, perhaps always. Radio communication is increasingly successful, however, so that the nations are less dependent on the cables than formerly.

Credit for the development of the petroleum industry to its present scope and perfection, says a Standard Oil leader, must go to the engineers. Fifteen years ago only 5 per cent of the executives in the industry were engineers. Now more than 50 per cent of them have engineering degrees. These remarkable figures show the tendency in all our modern industries. Industrial success depends more and more on technical science. Engineering knowledge used to go begging. Now our technical schools cannot turn out enough men to supply the need. Graduates are snapped up before the ink is dry on their diplomas. In no other branch of education today is there so promising a field of employment. If a boy shows talent for practical science, let him cultivate it. The world is going to need him, and will pay well for his services.

Every afternoon, says a physician, when he passes a certain street near a public school, he has to watch carefully and turn his car repeatedly out of its course to avoid hitting boys from 12 to 18 years old—fine-looking, well-dressed boys—who stand in the street jerking their thumbs for a ride. "Do I stop to take them in?" he asks, and answers with an emphatic "No!" They are interfering with traffic, he says. They are annoying drivers. They are endangering their own lives. But he is most concerned with the moral factors. These boys are simply begging, though nearly all of them have money in their pockets, and he will not encourage a spirit of beggary. They should be learning self-respect and respect for the rights of others. He wishes that teachers and principals would explain to their pupils that such conduct is "an individual and social sin." So do a lot of other drivers.

At last some enterprising fellow has put a Diesel engine into an automobile. On a trial trip it is said to have made 792 miles on $1.38 worth of fuel. That fuel, of course, is oil-petroleum from which the gasoline has been extracted, and which sells sometimes as low as 5 cents a gallon. This experimental car will be entered in the Memorial Day race for reliability and economy at Indianapolis. Then we shall learn more about it. But what is already known is richly suggestive. The oil-burning motor is conquering the sea, by its combined merits of economy, simplicity, safety and power. Adaptation to land and air seems to be a question of but a short time. Then we shall all travel farther for our money, with fewer explosions and fires, and the petroleum supply will last twice as long.

Among the most remarkable of recent remarks William Hohenzollern's "I am conscious of no wrong doing" merits front rank, and yet it is not quite as astounding as Senator Heflin's, "I did everything in my power to have harmony in the (Democratic) party."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

BY James W. Barton, M. D.

DON'T WORRY ABOUT FOOD.

When you read that deficiency ailments (where body tissues do not get the right kind of food stuffs) are found mostly in very poor people, and also in very rich people, while the middle class are not usually affected, you wonder just what may be causing them.

In the case of poor persons it is because they have to limit their diet to a monotonous round of cheap foodstuffs; while with rich people it is because they are apt to restrict themselves and their children to an equally monotonous diet.

But now a third class is being afflicted with this deficiency ailment, namely the individuals who are deliberately and mistakenly starving themselves of vitamins and other necessary food stuffs in a misguided attempt at dieting.

Now what about this eating business?

Is it necessary to know the number of heat calories in each foodstuff you eat? Should you study the proportion of the different kinds of foodstuffs, proteins, starches and fats? Should you attempt to classify the vitamins and make certain that you are getting all of them every meal, every day?

No. All this is really unnecessary. If you spend your time and thought trying to get exactly the right food, in the exact proportions, and amounts, then you will become "picky" about food, will worry when you are placed somewhere, sometime, where you can't get everything exactly right, and this worry and fretting will do you vastly more harm than any little lack of vitamins and calories.

Now too much food can cause trouble—can cause gout and increased weight; too much food including liquids can dilute the stomach and make it slow in emptying itself. Too much starch and sugar may cause diabetes in those with a tendency to diabetes.

However not getting enough of the right kind of food may cause rickets in children, nervous and skin disorders in adults.

Research men who really understand diet and nutrition, men like Drs. E. Y. McCollum and W. M. Bayliss tell us to "take care of the mixed diet and the vitamins will take care of themselves."

In other words eating bread, potatoes, meats or eggs, and sugar would apparently look like a "sufficient" diet, but of themselves they are deficient in vitamins, and so fruits and leafy vegetables and milk must be added if the diet is to be a "perfect" mixed diet. Fruits and leafy vegetables also supply the mineral matter essential to the body's health.

The whole point then is that if in addition to the regular everyday foods we now eat, we make sure of a certain amount of fruit and leafy vegetables, we do not need to think about proteins, starches or fats, about calories or about vitamins, because the above mixed diet gives us everything we need.

A QUESTION of HONOR by Ruth Cross

...and she was an old maid—the doctor had a new maid—conquer—Anne Wilson ignores her promise to forget Scott Glenn and seeks his mountain cabin. Caught in a thunderstorm she finds refuge in Glenn's home. The engineer surprises her there. Succumbing momentarily to her charms, Glenn confides in her, but misinterprets Anne's repentant attitude for one of indifference and grows coldly aloof. They start back to the lodge and find the trail washed out. Unknown to them, help is on the way. Apprehensive of Anne's chance, Morse interrupts his plotting against Glenn and his brigation dam to start a hunt for her.

Chapter 13
PAYING TOLL

ANNE strained her eyes, trying to fathom the bottom of the washout, which the swiftly falling darkness made every moment more threatening and fearful. She drew back a little farther from the edge, shivering in spite of herself. Some look in the eyes of the man beside her caused her to straighten up and stop shivering.

"What are we going to do?" she asked in her most practical, matter of fact tone.

He hesitated. "I might leave you here and go back for help," he suggested tentatively. "The two of us could probably patch up a bridge of some sort."

Anne paused a moment, then closed her eyes and jumped into Glenn's extended arms.

Anne glanced about her. The woods were brilliant already with shadows, terrifying shapes—Leon had said there were still a few wild animals, but she answered bravely. "That way I couldn't get back to the lodge until long after dark," she said, shaking her head in negation.

"The only alternative," Glenn observed, looking not at her, but speculatively down into the washout, "is to jump. There's really no danger if you keep your nerve."

Anne peered over into the black rift again, looked back at him, and nodded her head grimly. "We will jump," she said casually.

He looked at her skeptically. "See, my pulse is as steady as yours," she said, holding out a slim wrist.

"Not so bad," he said, after feeling her pulse. He stripped off his coat and flung it to the ground below. "I'll leap first—then I can catch you."

Without another word he jumped, clearing the washout by a good yard. He planted one foot forward, swaying a little at the knees. "Steady now," he called back. "Measure your distance."

Anne did nothing of the sort. She simply shut her eyes, clenched her teeth fiercely together, swayed for one sickening instant on the edge and—jumped.

It was some moments before she realized she was being borne along with no effort of her own.

"Bravely done!" Glenn murmured approvingly in her ear. "You've got the stuff in you for a real mountaineer."

"It wasn't brave at all," Anne confessed, laughing rather shakily. "I was scared within an inch of my life."

"Why did you do it then?" he asked interestedly.

She opened her eyes—they were very close to his. "I couldn't bear to have you think me a coward," she confessed.

"Oh—" He swept her up a little higher in his arms and went striding along, apparently unworried. Darkness enveloped them, but Glenn made no move to put her down, and she lay gratefully in his arms.

She found herself suddenly wide awake. "How very dreadful of me," she laughed in her most casual and conventional manner. "I must have gone to sleep—" She made a quick, decisive move to get to her feet.

He made no answer, but he did not let her go. Through the trees came the echo of a distant halloo—no doubt that was what had awakened her—and the faint glimmer of a lantern.

"That must be someone from the lodge now," she added with a sigh of not unmixed relief. "Please—I mustn't impose on you any longer—I was tired."

Still he made no move to let her down. Suppose Leon should see her in her present, unexplainable predicament? She made a more determined effort to get to her feet.

Glenn said nothing, but abruptly caught her closer in his arms. Suddenly stinging kisses that were like blows fell on her face, her throat, her hair, her lips. Anne's smothered cry, her fierce wrench to free herself, went unnoted. She lay trembling with fury, but helpless. Finally, with a queer laugh, he set her on her feet.

She stumbled confusedly away from him. The growing brightness of the lanterns told her that help was near; she formed her lips to cry out, but no sound came.

Glenn was watching her curiously. "Well, you've paid toll to at least one man for your philanthropy," he said coolly, folding his arms across his chest. "And—you wanted me to kiss you, didn't you?"

Robbers Face Prospect OF LONG PRISON TERM

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 15 (AP)—or five men who on November held up a number of guests at suburban home of John L. Jr., and robbed them of jewelry at $250,000, today faced the prospect of long prison terms.

They were convicted last and will be sentenced on Friday, fifth member of the gang, known only as "the millionaire kid," still being sought.

The five men invaded the Erie county home of Mr. C. while a dinner party was being in honor of the engagement of Eleanor Cameron, of Waco, Tex. Courtland Van Cleft. All three were lined along the wall and to turn over their valuables.

Included a pearl necklace owned Mrs. Ray Alan Van Cleft and valued at $100,000. None of the money has been recovered.

Billy Seiner, one of the convicts, faces the longest prison sentence due to two previous convictions. The others face minimum sentences of 20 years. They are Red Duke, Teddy and Eddie Przybyl.

LIGHTS BY GRANT DIXON NEW YORK

O'Connor, who knows his way better, probably, than any man, tells the story of the of a vaudeville agent to sign contestants in the recent six-day race held at Madison Square. He thought that the winning world appreciate the extra to be gained from a short tour vaudeville. But the winners read the offer when they learned they would have to play four a day and five on Saturdays Sundays. This reminded O'Connor of the vaudeville engagement undertaken by "Doc" Cook after he covered the North pole. Cook, O'Connor, walked off the bill at the theater in Chicago, coming that his dressing room was cold.

Politest

E. Ward, president of the Irving company, has been set down in the most polite of all ways. His company is erecting a skyscraper at 1 Wall street. Before erection of the steel into began, Mr. Ward sent a note each of some 550 captains of industry and finance whose offices are adjoining buildings. The note to Morgan read as follows: "We hope you will bear with us patiently as possible during the foldable noisy weeks that lie just ahead. Our builder is pressing work at top speed. His schedule in the present season of closed windows will at least minimize your discomfort."

Leg Facts

A gentleman who works on Variety who consequently calls himself a leg mugg reports that dance dancers have become such experts they can tell a girl's nationality by the look of her legs—and also good a dancer she is. Says he: "A girl who may be a cross-puzzle from ear to ear might be intelligent according to how her reads. Dutch girls' legs are shorter and chubbier than most. Irish girls can be identified by ankles and knees. Inner ankles denote German blood. A girl has small bones and elegant muscular curves. Intelligent girls lift their legs higher while dancing. American girls have the best shins."

Fruitless Search

The American Society for Psychical Research has been conducting a fruitless search for a real New York ghost. It appears, ghosts just can't live in New York. They can't stand apartment house life, and there are no suitable private houses which might be haunted, but the city's aged it 25 years ago, and now it is one more museum. And there's the of $21,000 waiting for the person who finds a real New York ghost.

It's Tough

Mean days lie behind and ahead of theater business. Twenty producers closed in two weeks, and one of the last three performances. Another lasted four. One Broadwayfarer remarked that the only way to beat game this season is to close a theater before it opens and then the talkie rights.

Tail Lights

The idea of persons carrying tail lights to protect them from motor cars has always appeared fantastic enough to get a good laugh in the vaudeville houses. But it is no laughing matter with Mrs. Ida Lathers, who lives on West End avenue. Mrs. Lathers is a New Yorker from the old days. She has a red lantern when she ventures out at night. For 27 years she has been a director for a home for aged, and for that many years has been taking a surface car to the institution. Nowadays, she is motorists speed by tramway without stopping, and only by holding her lantern can she board a car in safety at night.

SPRING SUITS ARE VARIED IN LINE AND MATERIAL

New York—Spring versions of the tailleur are legion. One finds suits as plain as the proverbial pipe stem and suits formal enough for any function—not an exaggerated phrase either since the evening suit's acceptance. The evening suit, as every one must know, is often of metal cloth and is the term used to designate a frock and short coat.

Wide Waile chevrons and all sorts of worsteds and woollens from flannel up are being prepared for spring, in almost as many types. The Tuxedo and the Norfolk suit have been added to an already formidable list which includes short and long coat and skirts which are pored, pleated, circular, wrap around and straight.

(Copyright, 1930, Fairchild)

A tweed ensemble indicative of the Parisienne's idea of skirt lengths for such a costume is developed in shades of brown and has lupin scarf.

One thinks first of suits in terms of tweed and of novelty fabrics although the wise ones assure us that the black cloth and the navy cloth suit will return. Paris has shown a strong preference for navy and America needs only slight encouragement to accept it wholeheartedly.

In considering the new shades, as sponsored by Paris, it may be well to remember that new greens have been added to an already impressive array of greens ranging from water to pine. It is the darker tones, many of which are bluish in character which have been added to the list of interesting spring town possibilities.

Skirt lengths remain clear of the ground by some twelve inches and necklines have crept to the base of the throat. Waists are hinted at, they are either belted or shaped at the side seams. Peplums are another feature instrumental in producing the nipped in waistline. Collars are a law unto themselves, an interesting entry being the velvet collar.

Pertussin loosens the phlegm—soothes the irritation and quiets the cough spasm quickly. Contains no dope.

GIRL SCOUTS

ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

MISS MARION L. BORDEN, Commissioner.
MISS EMERALD A. HARPER, Director.

Your reporter lady has been very negligent about news. She's very happy though. Why? Because such numbers of you have asked where was the news and when it would be in again, which shows how many Girl Scouts read their column.

Ulster County Girl Scouts are deeply grateful to Everett E. Fessenden of Kingston for the privilege of using a bright cheery room at 5 Field Court as headquarters for the entire county organization. This room will be used for the director's office, for council and leaders' meetings and by the girls for consultations, passing of certain tests and special troop meetings. We hope that the troops will take pleasure in helping to equip the room, each troop choosing its own gift.

The numbers of our organization are increasing, leaders as well as girls. In December four fine Kingston women and three high school students volunteered their leadership and are attending the Thursday evening training course. They are Mrs. Barber of 35 Emerson street, Miss Margaret Finn of 31 Clifton avenue, the Misses Marion and Eileen Byrne of 36 Van Buren street, Mrs. Walker of 42 South Pine street, Miss Ethel MacKinnon and Miss Elfreda Clarke of 76 Liberty street.

Mrs. Barber is coming in as leader of Troop Four, Kingston, which meets at the First Reformed Church on Main street. This troop was formally enrolled with a candle lighting ceremony on Thursday, December 19. The three invested Scouts holding the candles were Annie Almfelt, Betty Brigham and Viola Draves. Twelve new girls were taken in: Phyllis Babcock, Ruth Butler, Margaret Clayton, Carol Ensign, Virginia Every, Mervie Green, Ruth Jensen, Mildred Ludwig, Mary McMann, Virginia Rife, Virginia Roehl and Iona Van Wageningen. In spite of the bad weather nine mothers were able to attend the ceremony at which tea was served by the girls, each patrol, having their own particular share of duties in the tea serving.

Miss Finn has come in as assistant to Miss Moesteln in Troop 3 which meets in St. Mary's School. Mrs. Walker, Miss MacKinnon and Miss Clarke plan to lead the new colored troop which is just starting. They meet at Headquarters on Tuesday afternoons.

In Ellenville Mrs. Rose Fain Kanger of 8 Tuttle avenue and Mrs. Bertha Lefkowitz of Spring Glen have joined the ranks. They had their first meeting with the girls Tuesday evening of this week at the Talmud Torah. This was a get-together to talk over starting a new troop in Ellenville.

Accord has recently worked up a troop with Mrs. George Coddington as its leader. They are very happy this week to welcome Miss Nellie Davenport of Accord into the troop as associate leader.

A new training course for leaders is under way in Kingston. It is a study in General Troop Management, beneficial both to new leaders and to those of some experience. Through January and February, Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 at the local headquarters, 5 Field Court, are the time and place. All leaders in the city should take advantage of this.

The girls in the Training Course at New Paltz spent a delightful meeting last week at a weathered log cabin on the Arbuckle estate near New Paltz. The class divided into two groups—the first had the fun of laying a woodcraft trail to the cabin. The second group starting two hours later followed the trail. All met at the gate to the Lake Mohonk road and were privileged to go through that picturesque Elizabethan gate house which graces the entrance there. Discussions of hiking programs, and then, hungry appetites proclaimed everybody's triumph at preparing out of door menus a huge success.

The troop personals for the past month will come out in our monthly bulletin next week. Has your troop sent in some news?

Miss Mildred H. Eaton, captain of Dogwood Troop, Ellenville, and Miss Emerald A. Harper, director of Ulster County Girl Scouts, attended the Field Institute at National Girl Scout Headquarters, 679 Lexington avenue, New York city, last Wednesday.

day. The subject for the day was "Standards in Girl Scouting." Miss Eaton and Miss Harper expect to give jottings from this meeting at the county leaders' meeting next Saturday.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Pleasing Frock For a Little Miss.

6700. Cotton prints are good for this attractive style. Front and back form deep V portions, to which bloused waist sections and flared skirt sections are joined. A narrow belt conceals the joining. The sleeve is a bishop model, gathered above a band cuff. A round rolled collar trims the neck edge. Checked woolen, wool crepe, and wool georgette are also suggested for the little frock. In velvet it is also very attractive.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the dress for an 8 year size will require 2 1/2 yards 35 inch material. For collar, belt and band-cuffs of contrasting material 3/4 yard 35 inches wide is required, cut crosswise. To finish with bias binding or braid as picture in the large view, will require 5 1/2 yards 1 1/2 inch wide. For the bow of ribbon 3/4 yard is required.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

EMPTY BARRELS

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

A FELLAH with a load of barrels will take up most the road, and yet you'll find, if you will look, he hasn't got a load—

Although the pile is mighty tall, it all is empty, after all. It rattles down the village street and makes a lot of din; To hear him you would think it was a circus coming in. To make a racket in the street a load of barrels can't be beat.

The man who always looks so wise, the man who never jokes, who takes himself so serious in front of other folks, it very often will befall, is just an empty, after all.

The man who likes to argue and talk both long and loud, the man opposit' ev-rything, may draw a little crowd— But they will find, the more he quarrels, it's just a load of empty barrels. (© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Through a Woman's Eyes

by Jean Newton

ONE MAN—TWO WOMEN

"BEWARE of that man," one woman said to another. "He's—oh well, you know the wild bachelor type of the unpleasant kind."

"You sort of feel with him that you're being looked over-apparently, and if he approves, you've got to be on the defensive."

"You wouldn't like his conversation. He gets so personal—and he gives you the feeling that he's looking for an opening to get familiar. Anything you say is likely to be misconstrued, and before you know it you feel sort of cheap, if not insulted. I had a terrible experience with him once."

The two women were on the sands at one of the Florida beaches, where this conversation took place. The woman who had spoken moved away, her friend remained in her beach chair. Before long she was surprised to find, seated beside her, the man against whom she had just been warned. He had been introduced to her by common friends, so that she felt constrained to be civil to him, though chilled by the consciousness of what the other woman had said of him and his conversation.

He talked—and this is what he talked about: books, plays, his mother, his career, and the new trend in education. Far from being presumptuous or offensive, he was interesting, and except for his deferential manner, gave no sign of consciousness that it was a woman to whom he was talking.

One woman said he was insulting and made her feel cheap—the other he treated her like his sister, or like a queen. To one his conversation was personal, flirtatious, offensive; to the other it was deferential and full of sincerity of interest in the abstract matters which he discussed.

The first woman wasn't imagining it—with her his conversation had been all sex.

The same man—two women. What do you get out of that? (© by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Worked to Save Fish

City firemen at Tampa, Fla., pumped water into a lake to save fish from drowning. A sanitary sewer burst and the refuse drained into the lake. Fish died from lack of oxygen. The fire department was called upon to hook up its pumps with city water mains and furnish fresh water to the inhabitants of the pool.

I know nothing which life has to offer so satisfying as the profound good understanding which can subsist, after much exchange of good offices, between two virtuous men, each of whom is sure of himself, and sure of his friend.—Emerson.

PHOENICIA

Phoenicia, Jan. 14.—Dr. Pace is still on the sick list. Miss Lord is convalescing after her recent illness. Several children could not attend school owing to bad colds. Quite a number had attacks of sore throat. The stores are now closing at 6:30. W. J. McGrath and wife attended the auto show in the city.

Mrs. Alshemer, who left for the south, is now at Daytona, Florida. Lawyer Dibble and family of Tannersville are spending some time here.

The sittings for the tax collecting were posted, but owing to the illness of Kenneth Ennis, collector, someone will have to be appointed in his place before the collecting can be done.

Denotes Authority

The word "plenary" means full and in a legal sense means complete so far as authority is concerned. A plenary action is one in which all parties concerned have full power of authority to act.

Handicap to Be Fought

An unpleasant speaking voice is not incurable. It is overcome by training. Ordinarily the voice is unpleasant because it is pitched too high, or because there is present a throaty quality. Vocal culture is helpful. A rasping voice may upset even the calmest nervous system. It is a serious beauty defect, and should be overcome.—Chicago Post.

and Commercial

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Renewal of selling attacks against the Merchandising issues, particularly Montgomery Ward which was hammered down more than 5 points to a new low record for the present stock at 38 1/2, unsettled today's stock market after an opening period of moderate strength. Early declines in most of the active issues ranged from fractions to 3 points, although a few specialties for which there is a thin market dropped 4 to 13 points, but an irregular recovery set in during the early afternoon.

Weakness of Montgomery Ward, which held as high as 156 1/2, in the bull market last year, was attributed in some quarters to the liquidation of a weakened speculative account, and in others to bear attacks based on the disappointing nature of some of the recent earnings statements. Rumors that one of Wall Street's largest bear operators had received a 300,000 share liquidating order in that issue were denied. Sears Roebuck dropped 3 points in sympathy, and J. C. Penney 2.

Midland Steel Products Preferred broke 13 points, Auburn Auto and Colorado and Southern yielded 8 points each, Columbian Carbon 4 1/2, American Woolen Preferred and J. I. Case, 1, and Brunswick-Balke-Corland dropped 1 1/2 to a new low record of 14 1/2. Atchafalpa, St. Louis Southwestern, Republic Steel and Brooklyn Union Gas yielded 2 points, or more.

Amusement shares were again in good demand. Warner Bros. Pictures was marked up more than 3 points. Loews 2 and Radio, Fox Film, Radio-Kelth-Orpheum and Paramount Famous Lasky advanced a point or more.

A good demand also was noted for a few railroad shares. Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific and Delaware and Hudson rising 2 to 3 1/2 points, or more.

Call money renewed at 4 1/2 percent but dropped to 4.

MISS HAVENS TALKS ON KINDERGARTEN WORK

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of School No. 8 was held Tuesday afternoon, January 14. A sketch, "The Lawyer's Opinion," was given by Miss McAndrew's room.

Mrs. Clearwater, president, presented the speaker, Miss Ruth Havens, who heads the kindergarten department of New Paltz Normal.

Kindergarten was founded by Mr. Goebel, a German, who by watching mothers play with their children, discovered the value of the right kind of play.

Miss Havens said that a modern kindergarten for children from four to six years of age, not only prepares them for first grade work but teaches them how to adapt themselves to others, to observe the different holidays and different seasons, teaches obedience, desirable habits, to play intelligently, not to be afraid of the teacher. As a whole kindergarten teaches children to stand on their own little feet. Goebel said, "Come, let us live with our children."

The value of Mother Goose was mentioned as being a way to Shakespeare and Milton.

Miss Havens reported that Newburgh has put in a number of kindergartens and urged the association members to do all they could to start them in Kingston.

During the business meeting it was decided to observe Mothers' Day February 17. A special program is being arranged and a large attendance is desired.

There is no ice in the river below Esopus island.

Famous Colonial Hall

The trees on the front terrace of Carvel hall, at Annapolis, Md., are between 250 and 300 years old. They are albanus trees, the Chinese "tree of heaven." No one seems to know how they happened to be planted on the front terrace of Carvel hall. They were brought from China in a sailing ship considerably more than 200 years ago. The house in front of which they stand is the Prince George street entrance of Carvel hall hotel. It was built in 1764 by William Paca, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence and the third governor of Maryland.

Where Friendship Ceases

A clever young advertising expert, asked whether the men she met seemed to resent the competition of women, answered: "It's largely a question of salary. If you get less than $5,000 a year you are a nice girl and a great help to them. But the moment your salary goes above $5,000 look out. That's where friendship ceases. Then you stop being a nice girl and become a competitor."—Boston Globe.

"THE MID-WINTER VACATION" AT ARETASVILLE SCHOOL

On Monday evening, January 13, the first meeting of Colonial Lodge for 1930 was held in Aretas Lodge rooms. At the close of the meeting a sketch was given by the entertainment committee, called "The Mid-Winter Vacation at Aretasville School."

Those in the cast were: Martha Rand, school teacher; Emily Schussler, music teacher; Theora Ryer, school pianist; Elsie Shipman, "1929"; Adah Flowers, "1930"; Jennie Herford, Santa Claus; Mabel Bode, noble grand of the lodge, made the introductory speech. At the ringing of the school bell to cast entered, excepting the pianist, who was always late, but got there in time for the school song. A roar of laughter went up on seeing the quaint and modern costumes. The program consisted of familiar songs, recitations, and speeches by the visitors.

The two bad boys of the school were George Flicker and "Nick" Bode, who had to don dunce caps, which brought forth more laughter. As the clock struck twelve "1929" departed, leaving Colonial Lodge in charge of "1930." At this time Adah Lang Syne was sung. Then Santa, who so kindly stayed over the holidays, presented each one with a gift. A huge circle was then formed and everybody shook hands.

A good time and refreshments were next in order. From each and every one was heard, "I never had such a good laugh and time since I joined the lodge."

If the correspondent hears right, a good time is in store for the members the first meeting in February. The committee in charge thanks all who helped to make the night one long to be remembered.

The school consisted of: The board of education, Edna Cole, D. D. P.; president; Josephine Barringer, Theresa Ryer, Viola Conklin, Viola Saulpaugh, Adah Flowers, Helen Otto, Louise Lemster; police, Josephine Harringer, Eugene Flicker; roll call, Viola Conklin; senior class, Mabel Bode; freshman class, Myrtle Flowers; post-graduate, Margaret Anderson; guards of senior class, Edna Cole, Louise Lemster; guards of freshman class, Mollie Bode, Adah Flowers; devotional exercises, Elsie Shipman; honorary, Schussler twins, Emily and Tessie, escorting visitors around the school, Helen Otto, Mary Schrader.

SAVINGS OF $50
MOTIVE FOR MURDER

Philadelphia, Jan. 15 (AP).—Police revealed today that they have definitely established that the motive for the murder of Mrs. Edith Godshalk, whose body was found tied in a sack in the back yard of a vacant house last week, was robbery.

A little more than $50 she had saved out of her small salary as an ironer in a laundry was taken from his hiding place in the apartment she shared with Frank Andre.

Police, who are searching for Andre, said today that the person who hacked Mrs. Godshalk to death had taken the money. The woman was buried yesterday at Binghamton, N. Y., next to the grave of her mother.

The industrial basketball girls of the Y. W. C. A. are feeling very happy and justly proud over the successful and very enjoyable dance given by them at the Y. W. C. A. hall on Monday evening, with some 90 young folks present. The hall was artistically decorated, orange being the predominating color, with small evergreen trees adding to the beauty of the picture. The young people thoroughly enjoyed dancing to the excellent music of Ernie's orchestra and were enthusiastic over the dance in general.

Lowell Club

On Tuesday afternoon the Lowell Club met at the home of Mrs. Woadley. The paper for the day on "Comparison between the Pearl Mosque at Agra (Mohammedan), the Shwe Dagon at Hangoon (Buddhist) and the Great Pagoda of Tagore (Hindu), and their Respective Wonders," though comprehensive and complicated was admirably and amply covered by Mrs. W. M. Fessenden, who further added to the interest of her subject by showing pictures of the scenes depicted. Miss Quimby gave a delightful sketch on "The Music of India," and under the more general title of "Music," Mrs. Bagen brought to the club a hymn from India, set to familiar music, which was sung by the entire club. Next Tuesday the club will meet with Mrs. James H. Everett.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help clear the bowels and force to act normally. They never force to act unnatural action.

Y. M. C. A. Senior Five Defeated A. T. and T. Quintet

The Y. M. C. A. Senior team handed the A. T. and T. quintet a beating Tuesday night at the "Y" court to the tune of 65 to 30. It was after the first half that the winners went on a scoring rampage making the game a one-sided affair.

The teams appeared evenly matched in the first quarter. The telephone men played basketball that held the "Y" team in check. In fact they had the upper hand once in the opening session, 4-7 but before the period ended the Seniors were in front.

There was no doubt that the game would have been extremely interesting had the telephone team continued the pace that they started in the opening session. Their defense work was splendid with Bruck and Chapman starting at the guard positions. These two men in the backfield stopped all the charges by either blocking passes or preventing shots.

Along with this splendid guarding game the A. T. and T. men were waging a somewhat successful offensive attack. The "Y" team went into the lead after collecting a pair of field goals but then the losers began to find the hoop and they went up to seven before Johnson's team rallied again. However, that was the first and only time that the A. T. and T. held the lead. Seven points were their limit for the quarter while the "Y" squad had 12.

Half 27-17.

The A. T. and T. men never came any closer to overcoming the "Y" lead. In fact they were steadily being buried under a substantial collection of points. A point now and then was made by the "phone" players, but the "Y" team kept them fast and plenty. They had a 10 point lead when the half closed, 27 to 17.

Big Third Period.

The "Y" team had a big quarter in the third. They just tossed it in and it would go. The "Y" team added 14 marks to their previous tally. All this time the Telephone men were laboring to secure 8 points.

Fourth Quarter.

The score keeper needed an adding machine to keep the points made in this session. The "Y" squad went from 41 to 65. One dice was made after the other with Niles leading the scoring band with 22 marks. The A. T. and T. men raised their tally five points and the game ended with the score, Y. M. C. A., 65; A. T. and T., 30.

KINGSTON PROS CHALLENGE SPINNY'S

Manager Longendyke, of the Kingston Pros, who has been angling for a game or a series of games with the Spiny Radio Five of Port Ewen, is now at the boiling point in his enthusiasm and hurls a challenge at the haughty Radio Men. Longendyke would meet the Spiny's on any court and play under whatever rules the Port Ewen team picked.

Polo Prospects In America

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—This is distinctly an international year for polo in America, with the prospect that it may be the most interesting we have yet known.

J. J. Astor, acting as chairman of the Hurlingham polo committee, the governing body of polo in British dominions, has fired the gun which will eventually be heard around the world in the form of a challenge for the famous international polo cup, serious preparations for which have evidently been under way for some time.

The series, consisting of the best two out of three games, will be played early in September at Meadow Brook, Long Island, New York, and will be the outstanding event of the year. Interest is world-wide in this event. It will draw spectators from all of the polo playing countries of the world, many reservations already having been made in advance.

International polo competition has steadily developed. At the present time we have an Argentine team in California for participation in the winter tournaments there, one member of which is the famous Manuel Andradá, well-known in this country as a spare man on the 1928 team. They have one of the finest pony studs which has ever left that country and it traveled for 42 days in its ocean journey to Los Angeles.

An excellent Australian team is planning to take a similar long journey to compete in the English tournaments this year and will undoubtedly come here to witness our international series.

While the organization of the American team to defend the historic international cup against Britain, is not far advanced, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., will, of course, captain the American side again. There is no one on the horizon likely to dethrone Mr. Hitchcock from his top position in the handicap rating this year, although the development of such young stars as Winston Guest has been remarkable. Not in years has there been so many possibilities as to the formation of another big four.

The year, within the United States probably will be featured by the development of young players in intercollegiate polo which is making great strides in its class.

The growth of facilities and the formation of new clubs is most impressive. Fields to be opened in the Meadow Brook area this year will nearly double those heretofore existing.

The officers, as well as handicap, cup defense and circuit governing committees to handle affairs for 1930 will be named at the annual meeting of the United States Polo Association to be held in New York January 22.

TILDEN AND HUNTER TO PLAY IN BIG TOURNAMENTS

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Although they have decided to quit the Davis Cup Arena forever, neither Big Bill Tilden nor his close friend and playing champion, Frank Hunter, is yet ready to abandon "big time" tennis in favor of younger stars.

Hunter revealed yesterday that both he and Big Bill will compete in all the big American outdoor tournaments this summer and fall including the national championships.

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Night football in many sections of the country has come to stay, for good and sufficient reasons, the foremost of which is that it is good business. This may be something of a shock to those credulous souls who still believe that the big college game should be directed toward less commercialistic ground, yet so long as the athletic plants and operations are to survive they must have the funds derived from the gridiron.

Drake University at Des Moines, Iowa, will play all its home games at night next fall after experimenting successfully with play under the arc-lights last season. Drake also will play Oregon at night in Chicago this year.

"It all seems so simple now that the wonder is we did not try it before," remarked E. C. Lytton, Drake's business manager. "First, night football is just as logical an arrangement as night basketball or night boxing or evening performance in any other sport. Second, it permits thousands who work Saturday afternoons to see and enjoy the games. Thus, we please those interested besides attracting bigger crowds and, consequently, larger gate receipts."

"At Drake we doubled the attendance. I am told that Marquette, at Milwaukee, increased home-game attendance 400 per cent by playing at night."

"From the players' as well as the spectators' angle, the game and the ball is just as easy to follow under artificial light as it is in daylight. We had one of the greatest punters in the country last season in Nesbitt and at no time was he able to kick the ball outside the zone of light."

The East seems likely to follow the lead of the South and Middle West in conducting more games at night. Syracuse University tried the scheme with success last fall. Georgetown contemplates the departure next season. Several of the smaller colleges played night games at Pittsburgh last year.

In spite of the difficulties Florida horse racing has been experiencing, due to the anti-betting laws, Miami seems assured an uninterrupted stretch of thoroughbred sport when Hialeah throws open its gates January 16. The backing of a wealthy group of New York and Philadelphia sportsmen, headed by Joseph E. Widener, indicates that turfmen are pretty sure of their ground. An injunction last winter failed to check the sport at the famous East Coast resort and legal interference is not considered likely to materialize again.

Tradition still favors New Orleans as the southern racing ground but Miami has bid successfully for a good share of the patronage from wealthy turfmen as well as the rank and file of the sport's followers.

Meanwhile Agua Caliente, just over the Mexican border from California, takes rank as the third winter turf resort of prominence. It features the outstanding event of the season in the Agua Caliente Handicap, with $100,000 added and an approximate gross value of $140,000, to be run March 23 as the successor to the famous Cofroth Handicap. The books for this mile and a quarter classic have closed with 78 entries, including Display, the great Eastern cup horse; Nishapur, Golden Prince and Crystal Pennant.

From this long range spot, the most interesting feature in the review of the University of California's fine athletic record for 1929 is that the Golden Bears have an ice hockey team. We might have been prepared for it by the strenuous battle the Golden State made for the 1932 winter Olympics, which finally were awarded to Lake Placid.

When the enthusiast think of California, he pictures brawny football teams, all-conquering track squads or husky crews, yet the ice game was played by the Golden Bears for the first time last year. It gained favor rapidly and the first outdoor hockey meet was held in Yosemite Valley with Southern California and the Olympic Club also among the competitors.

HARVARD LOCKER BUILDING BURNED

Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 15 (AP).—Trophies of intercollegiate victories, athletic equipment and the Harvard locker building, adjacent to the stadium on Soldiers' Field, were destroyed by fire of unknown origin early today with a $100,000 loss.

Nearly Harvard business school dormitories, a baseball cage and buildings housing army men attached to the school of military science were not damaged. The blaze was under good way when discovered about 12:30 a. m. and three alarms were sounded.

Dennis Enwright, veteran trainer, and his wife and children, who lived in an adjoining house, were forced to flee. Allan Hoover, son of the President, was among business school students at the fire.

Therewas Operated Upon

Tuis, Jan. 15 (AP).—Tommy Therewas, Philadelphia National League shortstop and former St. Louis Cardinal, is convalescing in a hospital here from an operation on his nose. The surgical treatment was made necessary by an automobile accident which occurred in Florida last March and which kept Therewas out of the Phillies' lineup for several months.

Boxing Show Called Off

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—The New York Coliseum has called off the boxing show it planned for tonight. Big Bill Hartwell of Kansas City was to have met Arthur Dekuh of Italy in the feature bout.

Bob Grove Ranked Leading Pitcher in American League

Chicago, Jan. 15 (AP).—Bob Grove, the Philadelphia Athletics' great southpaw, was acclaimed the leading pitcher of the American League in 1929, but old Tom Zachary, rounding out 10 years of major league service, was the mathematical champion, according to official figures.

Zachary, working for the New York Yankees, after terms with Washington and St. Louis, won an even dozen victories and was undefeated during the campaign. His earned run average, 2.47 per nine innings, also was best.

Zachary, however, worked in but 120 innings, while Grove pitched 275, winning 20 and losing but six games. His earned run average was 2.82, second only to Zachary. Grove also was the strikeout champion with 170, giving him the title for a second successive year. Eddie Rommel, another Philadelphia hurler, won 12 games and lost two, being employed mostly as a relief hurler.

Other leaders were: Fred Marberry, Washington, 19 won, 12 lost, earned run average 3.96; Alphonse Thomas, Chicago, 14 won, 18 lost, earned run average 3.28; Willis Hudlin, Cleveland, 17 won, 15 lost, earned run average 3.34; J. Walter Miller, Cleveland, 14 won, 12 lost, earned run average 3.58; George Walberg, Philadelphia, 18 won, 11 lost, earned run average, 3.59; Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland, 21 won, 10 lost, earned run average 3.59.

Sam Gray of St. Louis put in the greatest number of innings, 365, and completed 23 of his 34 games. Thomas of Chicago, pitched 23 full games out of 35.

American League pitchers did not turn in a single no-hit game, but Urban Faber of Chicago, Walberg of Philadelphia, and Edwin Wells and George Moggas of the Yankees, each pitched a one-hit contest.

Zachary's 12 straight was the best run, while Charlie Ruffing of Boston, made the same record in reverse, losing 12 in a row.

SHUTE TAKES PLACE AMONG NATION'S GOLF CHAMPIONS

Los Angeles, Jan. 15 (AP).—Denmore Shute, who boasts of only two years in the ranks of the professionals, today took his place among the nation's golf champions as newly crowned king of the Los Angeles $10,000 Open Golf Tournament.

The 24-year-old Chino yesterday trudged from the final rain-soaked green in the 72-hole big money classic with $3,500 first place money added to his store of worldly goods. His almost flawless play under the most trying conditions left his closest competitors four strokes behind.

A consistent, steady game, close to par 71 figures, despite the heavy going of drizzling rains and wind surges, enabled Shute to carve out a 73-74-75-74 record for the four rounds—a 296 total.

Next came Horton Smith, pride of the Missouri Ozarks, and "Wee" Bobby Cruickshank of the Atlantic seaboard, tied with scores of 300. In fourth place finished the veteran Al Espinosa, Chicago, seven strokes behind the leader with 303, while Tommy Armour, Detroit, placed fifth with 305.

QUINTERO-MANDELL WILL FIGHT TONIGHT

Provided weather conditions are favorable, Manuel Quintero, Florida's outstanding junior welterweight, who is well known in Kingston, and Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion of the world, will meet tonight at the Kennel Club, Miami, Fla., in a 10-round non-titular bout.

According to reports from those who claim to know their fighters, Mandell will take the decision by outboxing the Spanish southpaw Kingston fans, who saw Quintero in his short but impressive battle with Freddie Kelly at the Kingston Fair Grounds last summer, predict a victory for Manuel. Kelly lost to Quintero on a technical knockout in the first round.

MOLVIN AND BLAINE TRAINING FOR BOUTS

Charles Molvin and Johnny Blaine, two local bantamweights, are busy training for fistic engagements in which they will participate Friday night at Newburgh. Molvin is slated for a six rounder with Frankie Minerva of New York city. Blaine will meet Ray Halverson of Newburgh in the eight-round semi-final.

Pastime A. C. Track Meet

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—Ray Conger, who makes a specialty of beating business from other lands, tonight will have a chance to add Eino Purje of Finland to his list of victims. Conger and Purje are to meet in a 1,500 meters run at the Pastime A. C.

Cuyler Is Brilliant Fielder

THE Cubs have a right fielder at present whose work is second to none. Some say that Cuyler's play at present is not as good as that of 1925 when he starred for the Pirates. This point is the cause for much debate.

His hitting is around the 350 mark, his stolen bases are more than any other player in either league and his right arm has infused more timidity into the hearts of base runners than any other outfielder. A man on second thinks twice before daring for third after "Kiki" has nabbed a fly in any sector of the field.

Pitchers have told how much Cuyler has improved himself at the plate. Their statements tell that before this year Hazen couldn't hit a curve ball on the outside. Now they are skeptical about throwing one ball in that vicinity. As Cuyler progresses in the art of hitting, pitchers are leary about throwing them any place, especially when the paths are loaded. That would make a dangerous hitter of him.

Cuyler began his career on a large scale with the Pirates in 1923 and stayed there until the end of the 1927 season, when he was traded to the Chicago National league team.

Cuyler's worst year with the bat came in 1925 when he was handicapped by a hand injury the first part of the season. The flush was strong enough to boost his average to .235, his lowest.

Sport Notes

Night golf is played on a miniature 18-hole course to Atlanta, Ga.

The Eastern Intercollegiate league of basketball teams is now 32 years old.

Georgetown university will take up boxing for the first time this season. Bucky Green is the coach.

St. Vincent and Illinois college, two Illinois schools playing night football, spent $3,000 on lighting equipment.

Martin Lang, southpaw pitcher, has been purchased from Omaha of the Western league by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Football fans of the United States spend upward of $1,000,000 to see gridiron battles each Saturday during the season.

Penn is the defending champion of the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball league and is out this season to win its third straight title.

Little Rock has bought three players from the White Sox, Tallit, an outfielder; Redfern, infielder, and Barnebee, southpaw pitcher.

Billy Boyd, now with the New York Americans Hockey club, was a Canadian aviator during the World war and the only one of his squadron not shot down.

Several minor leagues are expected to follow the lead of the International in cutting the player limit in an effort to reduce the expense of operating the clubs.

The veteran Pitt basketball team starts the season with hopes high. Charley Hyatt, captain and forward, has scored 594 points in the last two seasons—360 last season.

The Cubs have purchased L. Warneke from the Shreveport club of the Southern association. He is a large lefthander and is said to propel the apple with skill and speed.

The Farham basketball team has lost only four games in the last three years, one last year to New York university, one the year before to City college and the year before that to Manhattan and Catholic U.

Minor leagues are kicking because the majors grab the college stars direct from the campus. It is estimated that in the last five years nearly $500,000 worth of star talent has been taken with no profit to the minors.

A combined water wagon, temporary ambulance and first-aid station to be used at football games was presented to Ohio State university by Guy Bowman, loyal fan, as a reward to the team for defeating Michigan two years in a row.

Jones at Oregon

Rumors are current that Capt. Bir Jones, West Point football coach, may be approached in connection with the vacant coaching position at the University of Oregon to succeed Capt. John L. McEwan, resigned.

Many "Passion Plays"

The name, "Passion Plays," has been given to plays representing the passion of Christ. These plays became numerous between the Thirteenth and Sixteenth centuries, especially in Germany and the Tyrol. The most important survival is one that takes place every tenth year in the village of Oberammergau in the Bavarian highlands.

Killed in Boxing Bout

New York, Jan. 15 (AP).—The death of a participant in an unscientific bout at Olean, N. Y., again centered attention on "boxing" and resulted in plans for legislation to outlaw it.

Commenting on the death of Gus Gustafson of Mount Jewett, Pa., an alleged amateur bout at St. Lawrence College Monday night, J. A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, pointed out that the commission under the law, was powerless to act in the case.

"The death of Gustafson is a regrettable," said Farley, "but it is hoped that the incident will lead to the public's realization of the need for proper legislation that will permit the wiping out of 'brawl boxing,' unsanctioned shows, where in the state."

Inquiries into the case began yesterday by the commission and several differences of fact, said J. A. Farley, secretary-treasurer of the commission, were also noted. He closed that the bouts were advertised as professional matches and that no sanction had been applied nor received from the A. A. U. Farley then took up the matter with the State Athletic Commission to learn whether the college had license to conduct professional bouts. The commission said that no license was in existence and added the warning had been sent to the authorities some time ago that the bouts in question were "brawl boxing" although it was understood that they were advertised as amateur contests. Gustafson was licensed in Pennsylvania as a professional, according to information received at Olean, Chief of Police John Dempsey, who acted as referee in the bout, said he had been told by Ray Graham, college boxing instructor, that he (Graham) had secured sanction from the A. A. U. Stadel of Buffalo, in charge of boxing for the Niagara District A. A. U. denied that any sanction had been given for the bouts.

Tony Leto Wins By Knockout

Tony Leto, leading featherweight of Tampa, Fla., who resided at the former Eddyville boxing camp in several years, knocked out Joe Lucas sprawled over the canvas in the ninth round, after plenty of punishment from "Tampa Terror", who is noted as one of the hardest punching "feathers" in the ring today.

Although Leto had but one fight, Kingston, local boxing fans, who nessed him trounce Jose Martinez Spanish featherweight champion, one of Bill Sanger's open air shows in the fair grounds last summer drew the conclusion that Tony was one of the best two-weight lightweights ever seen.

The Martinez-Leto fight brought out that Tony hits his man every time one of his blows lands. He stung the rugged Martinez, who, although the Spanish champion, lasted for 10 rounds with Leto, who showed the effects of a bad landing at the end of the fracas.

Leto went out of the ring a winner. His victory was by a big margin and the fight primed local fans for another fight in which he would be featured, but Bill Sanger never got the chance to put him in another program.

Two Strange Seas

Scene on the Shore of the Caspian Sea.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

THE world's two most important and best known bodies of water that lie below sea level are the Dead Sea and the Caspian Sea. The Dead Sea is really a gigantic sinkhole. In no other continent is there such a deep depression in the earth's crust; nor will one find greater desolation or more uncomfortable conditions for man and most other living things even in the hearts of the greatest deserts.

The Hebrew scriptures have thrown an atmosphere of tragedy about this country. There, the chronic states, were situated the wicked cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, destroyed by the wrath of Jehovah; and there the modern reader sees the blasted region, seared by unbearable heat, with its bitter death dealing waters, to prove the story to his satisfaction.

According to the Biblical narrative the Jordan valley and the plain near its mouth on the shores of the Dead Sea where the destroyed cities lay shared the early good fortune of the Promised Land itself and "flowed with milk and honey." But an end was put to this pleasant condition by the rain of brimstone and fire.

The story of the region depicted from its rocks by geologists begins much earlier than the days of the patriarchs whose actions are recorded in the Bible. This record seems to indicate that Palestine and the whole western end of Arabia rose from the sea a million or more years ago in what the geologists term the Tertiary era. Shortly after the rise, it seems, a great slice of the land parallel to the coast of the Mediterranean sank to great depth, forming the huge rift valley, "the Ghaz," now occupied by the Jordan river and the Dead sea.

It is not clear whether there was a connecting channel between the Mediterranean and the great valley; but a well defined ancient beach indicates that in those remote times the great depression held a sea or lake at about the same level as that of the Mediterranean. The Jordan did not then exist; its entire valley as well as the sea of Galilee was swallowed up in the parent of the Dead sea, which was some 200 miles long and 10 to 15 miles wide.

Dead Sea Has No Outlet.

It is believed that the climate of Palestine in remote times was moist and that the great inland lake was for a while kept at its highest point. When drier conditions set in the lake began to shrink, eventually retreating into the present position of the Dead Sea and exposing the valley now occupied by the Jordan. This is practically the only large river in the world which flows in a valley ready-made for it almost from source to mouth.

The Dead Sea depression having no outlet, all the salts contained in the large original inland sea were retained when evaporation reduced the volume of the body of water to its present dimensions. In addition, for hundreds of thousands of years the Jordan and the other streams and torrents that flow from the desert hills into the basin have been carrying in additional salts until now the waters of the Dead Sea constitute one of the most highly concentrated natural brines in existence. It is estimated that on the average some six million tons of water flow into the Dead sea daily, and since the level of the sea changes but little, an equal amount is pumped out daily by evaporation.

The present Dead sea is 47 miles long and about 10 miles wide. Its surface lies approximately 1,300 feet lower than sea level and at its deepest point its bottom lies another 1,300 feet down. This great rift in the earth's crust, therefore, lies 2,600 feet below sea level and is the deepest hole in the land anywhere in the world. Because of the intense heat and dryness and the presence everywhere of salt the land immediately about the Dead sea is a region of desolation.

Because the intense heat and pressure often prove fatal to others than the few happy Arab nomads that manage to survive in the region, this area has until recently not been intensively studied by scientists. It was at first thought that there is no evidence of recent volcanic action and that the traditional destruction of the cities by a rain of fire and brimstone may have referred to the explosion of pockets of crude petroleum. A scientist who visited the region in 1909, however, reported a small extinct volcano near the northeastern corner of the Dead sea near the reputed site of Sodom and concluded that a shower of ashes from this vent may have caused the catastrophe so vividly described in Genesis.

Caspian Sea is a Puzzle.

The Caspian sea was thought, in the earliest periods of recorded time, to be part of the great "stream of ocean" surrounding the habitable earth. Herodotus, the Greek historian, mentions a visit to it in 458 B. C., when it was an even greater mystery than today, for then no one knew its extent. Some authorities claim that the Caspian at its origin in a great inland sea, an Asiatic Mediterranean, with an outlet to the Arctic ocean. In support of the Arctic outlet it is pointed out that seals are still hunted in the Caspian and there are other forms of life which show evidence of Arctic ancestry. It is argued that the Caspian owes its present size to climatic changes and evaporation. That the sea has reached other levels is evident by the number of terraces that can be seen back from the coast. However, to complicate matters, the weak development of the terraces indicates that the sea did not stand at any one level for a long time. Walls and cities have been found in many sections underneath the surface, an indication that the level of the water was even lower at one period than it is now.

Shifting shore lines are not the only eccentricities of the Caspian. Although 85 feet below the level of its neighbor, the Black sea, and with no known or possible outlet, the Caspian is less than half as salty. It is only three-eighths as salty as the ocean. Furthermore, the northern part, which receives large quantities of "fresh" rivers, is so slightly salty the water is quite drinkable.

The Black sea, with approximately an equal surface and almost the same climatic conditions, not only retains a constant level but is continually discharging at the Dardanelles. Yet the volume of water poured into the Black sea is not nearly so great as that which the Caspian receives. The Volga, alone, drains almost half a million square miles into the Caspian.

No other inland body of water is so richly stocked with fish, nor has as wide a range of species. The Caspian presents an intermingling of salt and fresh water forms. Before the World War the annual catch, including the seals of Krassnovodsk bay, was valued at more than five million dollars. With an area equal to that of the state of California, or more than all the Great Lakes combined, the Caspian sea today occupies the deepest part of a great depression situated to the west and south of the Ural mountains. The northern or fresh water half is shallow, nowhere reaching a depth of more than 118 feet. The southern half, however, is cut by two deep depressions and soundings have reached 3,000 feet.

Coastal Strip is Narrow.

Both the north and the east coasts are flat and hard to approach. Caucasus mountains on the west and the Elburz on the southern, or Persian, shore are close to the sea and leave only a narrow coastal strip. On this strip are most of the important cities of the region. Taken as a whole the Caspian is not an attractive body of water. Its shores are as barren as the granite boulders of its bordering mountains. As there is no fresh water above or below the surface of the ground near the southern coasts, the inhabitants must bring drinking water from long distances or condense sea water. One of the distinguishing features of towns along this part of the Caspian sea is the floating condenser plant, usually some worn-out steamer or sailing vessel. Sometimes the water is piped ashore, sometimes it is carried in tank barges and then peddled around the streets, as is milk in other cities.

Baku, the capital of the Soviet republic of Azerbaijan, is the largest city on the sea and the center of a prosperous, huge oil region. Its surroundings are like those of the nitrate towns along the coast of Chile, only the settlements are more numerous and better built. Before the war Baku was one of the most important cities in the Russian empire.

BUSY PROGRAM FOR SENIOR LUTHER LEAGUE

At the regular monthly meeting of the Senior Luther League it was decided to hold a spider-web social on Friday evening, January 31. A valentine party for league members and their friends will be held on Valentine Day, February 14. Another play will be given after Easter. The league will hold a religious service at the old people's home Sunday afternoon. The league is trying hard to reach the standards of a front line league by fulfilling the various requirements.

At the organization meeting of the Church Council, the following officers were elected: William F. Miller, president; Harry Hutton, secretary; James Davies, financial secretary; George Schantz, treasurer.

The Intermediate Luther League is entering into a new activity in the nature of a choral club. Miss Mildred Messenger will have charge of this part of their work. The annual election of officers of the Sunday school will be held Tuesday evening.

"Continent" and "Island"
The distinction between a continent and an island is primarily size. A continent, however, also differs from an island in its structure, which is that of a large basin bordered by a mountain chain.
